

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A robust microfluidics device is prepared by encapsulating a cast elastomer containing one or more microfluidic passages, and associated with at least one interconnect, onto a substrate employing as an encapsulating resin a curable resin which exhibits volume contraction upon cure.

5